- [8] 枠内に与えられた英文を手がかりにして、最も自然な流れになるように、①～④に入るものを右の選択肢ア～エから1つずつ選び、記号で答えなさい。
ただし、同じ記号は1度しか使えません。

Good afternoon, everyone. I am Eriko Takenaka, and I'm here to give you some advice about homestays. I went to England two years ago for my study abroad program and stayed for eleven months, so here is some advice.

Planning and preparing is really important. If you do this, your homestay will be easier. For example, you should think about things that you really need but are difficult to buy. 【 ① 】

After you start living with your homestay family, it is important to communicate with them often. 【 ② 】

You should also try to take a lot of pictures and write a diary every day. Try to write in English. 【 ③ 】

When you get back home, you should write letters to your homestay family and the new friends you made. 【 ④ 】

My study abroad and homestay experience was great, and I think it really changed my life and way of thinking. Yours can be great too, so good luck!

《 選択肢 》

- ア It is good practice for you, and you will remember all of the things you saw. All the new people and new experiences will change you. If you write a diary, in the future you can look back on your memories.
- イ That way, you can say thank you to them for the wonderful experience. Also, try to keep contact with them, so you don't forget each other. If you do that, maybe you can meet them again!
- ウ Medicine is probably the best example. Also, it is a good idea to contact your homestay family. Ask questions about what kind of food they usually eat, and tell them about any allergies. For example, if you have allergies to seafood or nuts, or cannot eat food with a lot of spice, you should tell them.
- エ This is for two reasons. Firstly, it is a really good way to practice conversation. Your skills will get better very quickly and you will learn a lot about them. Secondly, good communication will help you with problems. If you talk to them often, you and your homestay family will have a good relationship.

[9] 次の英文を読み、以下の問いに答えなさい。

1 Every country has different heroes. Some of them are great leaders, some of them are scientists, and some of them are artists. Some countries put a picture of their heroes on their money or on stamps. Other countries put the heroes' names on schools, bridges, and mountains. ①This is one way to remember important people, and remember what they have given to their culture. In Canada, one hero is Terry Fox. He was not a great leader, scientist or artist, but everyone knows his name.

2 Terry ②(grow) up near the city of Vancouver. He loved to run and play basketball when he was a boy. When he was eighteen years old, his leg became painful and he went to the hospital. The doctors checked his leg and gave him some very bad news. He had cancer. The doctor said that he had to remove Terry's leg or Terry was going to die.

3 After his operation, Terry worked hard to become healthy again. He learned to run with his new artificial leg. He played wheelchair basketball and he also learned more about cancer. However, ③he saw many children in the hospital who did not get better like he did. He felt very sad when these children died, so he made a plan and decided ④(practice) running.

4 Two years later, (⑤) April 12, ⑥Terry put his foot into the ocean at the eastern edge of Canada, turned around, and began to run. His goal was to put his foot into the Pacific Ocean on the other side of Canada, more than ⑦8,000 kilometers away. He was going to run a marathon, 42 kilometers, every day. He wanted to raise money for cancer research and his goal was to raise $1 million.

5 At the start of the run, there were ⑧many problems. First, not many people knew about his idea. Eastern Canada did not have many people, so radio, TV and newspapers did not talk (⑨) his story. Also, Terry and Doug, a friend driving the support car, had some arguments. Third, when they were running through an area ⑩(call) Quebec, they had a difficult time because the people there spoke French. ⑪The boys did not.

6 By summer, however, ⑫Terry was feeling happier. His brother joined him to help Doug drive the support car. Also, he was running near Canada's biggest cities, so many people were learning about his idea. ⑬The money (increasing / collecting / was / was / he) every day. His dream was coming true! , Terry made new goals. First, $10 million. Then, ⑭$1 for each of the 24 million people in Canada. Every day Terry gave more speeches, more interviews and went to more events. , he always finished his run every day.

7 By September 1, Terry was more than 5,300 kilometers from the start, but he was not feeling well. ⑮He (the hospital / take / asked / to / to / his friend / him). The doctors there told Terry that his cancer was . Terry had to stop ⑯(run) and go home to try to get better. He promised to come back and finish his run, and people from around the world sent him messages, cards, letters and presents. However, he died (⑰) the age of 22.

8 Terry was , but his story wasn't finished. Canadian people continued his dream by having a ⑱"Terry Fox Run" every September. Forty-one years after his death, there are now Terry Fox events around the world. (⑲) Canada, to Europe, and even to Japan, people run together to raise money for cancer research. Today, Terry has many things named after him, and the total amount raised for cancer research is more than $800 million.
